"A careful survey of the economic conditions of Hongkong during the first half of the year 188 reveals two facts: First, a general, permanent increase of trade; but 488 were steamers, 356 sailing cosseond, unusual activity in mercantiles. and, unusual activity in mercantile ircles, owing to the great demands made n the local market by the large Amerian squadron and army on this coast While this second condition may be temporary and may cary with it corresponding depression in some lines, I predict that it will be of great permanent benefit to American exporters. Nothing that ould have happened to this coast would be of so great a help in the introduction of American goods into these markets, as the presence of so large a body of American consumers in our midst. One forces of ocupation have done more than suquer a country; they have made an impression on Asiatic markets that can never be effaced. When our fleet first arrived here (in February, 1986), there were a few sample cases of American tinued milk fruits, meats, whisky beer etc. in the big English and German wholesale houses. The imports from America were made up almost wholly of California flour and American kerosone. Today, every steamer and ship from America brings cargoes of American goods. While their ultimate destination is Manila, they are handled by European firms here and come before the public in such imposing quantities that first curiosity is aroused, and demand follows. The great difficulty in the past has been to get the great body of Chinese consumers to sam-ple our manufactures. Even if this were pessible, the goods came over in small consignments and at prices which were prohibitive to all but those who could at-ford to pay for luxuries. With the influx of the Americans into Manila, American firms have found it to their advantage to send out men to study the needs of this climate. Already, one house has been established in Hongkong with a branch at Manila, which is meeting with a branch at Manila, which is meeting with gralify-ing success. I am informed that there is a snipment of 45,000 bales of upland cotton from Texas on its way here, which has been purchased by a large Chinese firm and is laid down here as cheaply as the Indian cotton. The trouble with the in-troduction of cotton filtherto has been that American producers have tried to place on the market the lowland cotton, which is too heavy a staple, besides being too expensive. Even our upland cotton 's superior to the best Indian growth. The new cotton-spinning mill, regarding which I wrote on January 15, 1898, is nearing completion, and it is hoped will be in oper-ation early in the year. It will create a new market for cotton in this colony. If our upland cotton can continue to compete with the Indian and Chinese growths, the demand will be almost un imited, as Ho g-kong is the feeder for three of the richest provinces of southern China, with a opulation of over 89,960,000 people. Referring to the Philippines, Consultereral Wildman says the Chinese are the controlling factors in business. He

"There is necessarily very great interest felt in the Philippine Islands, as the large English firms doing business there have offices in Hongkong; and the bulk have offices in Hongkong; and the bulk of the transshipment cargo from all European countries, save Spain, goes through Hongkong. In the year 1837, 113 ships entered this port from the Philippine Islands (tonnage, 133,000 tons), carrying 106,431 tons. As a comparison, 151 ships entered the same year from Great Britain (tonnage 351,178) carrying 179,087 tons of cargo and 429,609 tons in transit. The ships clearing at this nort for the The ships clearing at this port for the

"It can be readily understood how diffi-cult it is to cover the entire subject of imports and exports of this colony, when the fact that this is a free port, without a custom house, is taken into considera-tion. The prisperity of the ports" published by local firms. It is an interesting fact that, on account of its geographic position, the colony of Hong-kong benefits commercially by political upheavals of any nature that occur on the entire Ashitic coast. If a rebellion breaks out in southern China, both the rebels and the Government come to Hong-kong for their munitions of war and, atthough the colonial government has for the past year forbidden the export of arms, thousands of Mauser rifles have found their way into the rebellious districts. The numerous rebellions in the Philippine Islands that have occurred in previous years, have made big demands upon this market for the sinews of war. Our fleet, it is estimated, left in Hong-kong over $2,000,000 gold during the war.

"The price of silver has not varied greatly during the past two years, its extremes ranging between 46 and 48 cents. "To endeavor to cover the entire commercial question in Hongkong would etail a report on southern China, the Phil-ippine Islands, Formosa, and all adjacent territory, and involve interests so vast and varied that the impossibility of complying is apparent.
